Calling the Question If debate on a given motion has dragged on longer than you feel is warranted, you can "call the question". At that time, the chairperson IMMEDIATELY asks those assembled to vote on whether the debate should be cut off. If a two-third majority says to end the debate, we will then proceed to a vote on the motion itself. Please note: While the chairperson will encourage those at the microphone not to repeat what has already been stated, the chairperson will not "call the question". That motion can be made by any other Voting member present.

Point of Order This is a matter raised during consideration of a motion & concerns the rules of parliamentary procedure. A point of order may be raised if any rule appears to have been broken.

Please refer to the Area 45 Service Handbook for further information on these and other terms.
